100 Kids Go Whale Watching

Vallarta Adventures once again showed concern and interest in our School of Champions children and invited 100 children to go whale watching aboard one of their large boats on a Sunday morning. To the delight of the children, several whales were spotted and the children were given a close up view of the huge mamals.

Except for a very few, the children quickly got their sea legs and thoroughly enjoyed the 2 and a half hour excursión.

Thanks to Mr. Farkas the owner of Vallarta Adventures, our children get to see the other side of Vallarta, and the opportunities available to them if they continue in school and study.

WE NEED YOUR HELP

We have suffered a serious loss of contributions from our normal sources in the United States and Canada during the past six months. The obvious reason is the deteriorating economy north of the border which will probably not recover for two or more years. This situation has left our programs in serious trouble, particularly our School of Champions after school program and the Day Care operations.

Please help us to continue with these programs to help the children . We have new children signing up each week at our School of champions. They want to learn English and computer skills. They understand how important it is for their future. We have an obligation to help them achieve their goals. Your contributions, no matter how large or small, will make a difference.
